The Faith Of Christ

Seven times in St. Paul's epistles he refers to "the faith of Christ" and each time his purpose is to emphasize our Lord's worthiness of our complete confidence. That he does not refer to our faith in Christ is evident on the surface in each case. In the passage above he declares that the righteousness of God, which is "by the faith of Christ," is conferred "upon all them that believe" (Here's your faith in Him).

In the Greek language, however, the construction could be translated either as a subjective genitive (Christ's faith) or as an objective genitive (our faith in Christ). Interestingly, the King James translates them as referring to Christ's own faith. Over the decades the debate grew intense and scholars from around the world joined in.

The faith of Christ by C. Baxter Kruger

Many apparently entertain the illusion that redemptive faith is merely a willing dispositionto trust in Christ as one's Savior, independent of any further acts of obedience. Such a notion is quite alien to the truth. Let's explore the true, New Testament meaning of faith. First, faith involves a conviction grounded in evidence.

What Is Faith in Christ? - Christian Courier

The modern versions change the phrase "faith of Christ" to "faith in Christ" throughout, which overwhelms the passage with redundancy. Paul never intended the emphasis to be upon what man has achieved, but instead what the Savior has accomplished on his behalf. The apostle here is clearly contrasting these two phrases.

'Faith of Christ' and 'Faith in Christ' | Berean Bible Society

Faith of Christ comes to us through revelation from God (Matthew 16:17), and that means that there is no such aberration as faith 'apart' from the action of the Spirit's persuasion. In recent years, many modern theologians have discussed and debated the meaning of [ pistis christou ]. The Greek word [ pistis] means the act of being persuaded.

By the Faith of Christ, or our Faith in Christ?

Michael Bird writes: "Faith in Christ means entrusting ourselves to the event of the gospel, which includes the theocentric act of deliverance wrought by God in Jesus which includes his coming, faithfulness, death, and resurrection. Thus, I would say that Jesus' faithfulness is implied not in the noun pistis but in christos."

The Radical Christian Faith of Frederick Douglass ...

Or pisteos Iesou Christou as "faith of Jesus Christ" (Rom.3:22). The grammatical issue is whether it is the subjective genitive - Jesus' own faith - or the objective genitive - faith in Christ. All modern versions sadly translate pistis christou as faith in Christ. As a consequence, virtually a whole generation has missed what I believe is a most fundamental issue when it comes to justification by faith alone.

The Faith of Christ - RT Kendall Ministries

" God's righteousness was revealed in and through the faith OF Jesus Christ, and was revealed to faith; that is, our faith as we receive him. To preach Romans or Galatians well requires out-Pauling evangelicals, who often champion Paul more so than the Messiah for whom Paul gave his life. But there it is.
